tension-charged scenes. * * *

To my mind, the least significant of these will revolve around the "Dear Hal" letter, miserable document which bears but glancingly on the session. It will probably provide a good deal more of charge and counter-charge be fore we're done with it; but have yet to recognize it as bona fide political dynamite.

Three other issues loom One reared its head last Thursday. I refer to the attack spearheaded by North Vancouver Liberal Gordon Gibson and pressed very atrongly by both opposition groups against government forest policies.

* * Unless thoroughly disproved Gibson's claim that B.C. is letting vast forest revenues slip through her fingers each year will remain as a ghost to haunt and embarrass the ocial Credit ranks. Watch for this ghost to dance with a vengeance when Lands and Forests Minister Williston tackles his estimates.

Then there's the matter of Parks Act to be weighed. Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan has dropped no hint of what shape his suggested legislation will take . . . but should it sanctake . . . but should it sanc-tion further industrial intrusion into what we know as as 'class A wilderness parks' (Strathcona was one you may expect hot and bitter protests before the matter comes to the vote.

For myself, I won't be surprised if we emerge sweeping changes in parks classification and management philosophy.

* * The fourth and most signifieant confrontation will, I expect, take place when the House switches from comtee of supply into committee of the whole, to debate Bill Six. It is with this bill that Premier Bennett in his capacity of finance minister proposes 'An Act to Amend the Revenue Act.' If, or when, legislation will give B.C. power to purchase up to 10 per cent of shares in any or all Canadian chartered banks-a right which Ottawa has promised to veto with its own "no-shares" act against provincial govern-

look how you can remodel your kitchen with LIGHTI

No other kitchen improvement can add so much for so little cost. You can give your kitchen a bright new look and make it easier and more pleasant to work in. Start with adequate lighting for those many important "seeing" tasks. GENERAL LIGHTING. Sufficient overhead lighting helps you see into cupboards and drawers, read labels easily. It imparts a pleasant atmosphere on dull days, and a bright invitation to family and guests in the evening. One way to achieve this effect is with a simple fluorescent fixture. AT THE SINK. This is an action area: ample light is required to clean vegetables; to see if your dishes are really clean; and if, heaven forbid, that is a green bug on your spinach. Scientists tell us, by the way, that you need 53.6 footcandles to see 'a green bug on spinach' (which you could get from a 150 watt flood lamp). Solution: install a recessed light above the sink, or behind a decorative valance. MANIANA AT THE COUNTER. Baking and preparation of meals is so much easier when you have R shadow-free lighting. It helps you to read recipes, measure ingredients; make sure that pecial cake is trimmed to perfection. Hide fluorescent lamps under upper cupboards to light the counter surfaces. AT THE RANGE. Another important area. It figures: you will cook better if you can see THE WALLE what you are cooking. Is the steak rare or medium? Is that pastry done to the right shade of golden-brown? Install an attractive local light and you'll never have to wonder again.

Start planning your bright new kitchen now. Ease into it if you like, and add one lighting improvement at a time. You can add the cost of lighting fixtures to your monthly HYDRO bill - through the HOUSEPOWER FINANCE PLAN.

Liquor Hoax

Former Vancouver distillery executive Robert A. Foulis admitted his liquor huying and selling scheme was a hoax, B.C. Assize Court was told Monday.

This testimony was given by Vancouver police Det. William McGrenera who interviewed Foutis on Salt Spring Island in the fall of 1963 accompanied by RCMP Corp. Kenneth

FRANKFURTER . . . 'great man of law'

Foulis pleaded not guilty to four counts of fraud involving four men and about $160,000.

The testimony came after a trial-within-the-trial at the end of which Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton ruled the evidence ad-

Det. McGrenera testified that at the beginning of the interview he warned Foulis he "may be charged with a serious offence, mamely fraud."

Foulis told him he had been connected with various distiller ies as sales manager and vic president from 1952.

TRAVEL COSTS

In 1956 he was appointed Po tentate of the Shriners but his company rescinded an agreement to pay travelling expenses and he had to borrow from friends.

More than 30 questions and answers from testimony at Foulis' bankruptcy hearing in 1963 were read to him. Foulis said the answers were truthful.

In the answers Foulis admitted telling stories of a scheme to buy liquor from friends and sell to cocktail bars knowing it was false.

Det. McGrenera testified

Foulis told him the scheme in-volved buying discontinued fines of liquor from distilleries for resale.

Foulis said the scheme was not feasible in any way because of rigid control by the Liquor Control Board. Earlier, Robert Mason, pur chasing officer for the Liquor Control Board, said it "is not common practice" for discon-tinued lines to be returned to distilleries.

Det. McGrenera said Foulis told him the money derived from the scheme was used as travelling expenses while he was a Shriners Potentate.

In his opening address to the al-male jury, crown prosecutor William McIntyre said Dr. Patterson and Benton received more money back than they invested while Girrard and Shil-lington received less.

First of the four men to test fty, Dr. Patterson, 3000 Lans downe, said Foulis, who is his brother-in-law, approached him and Benton in late 1958 saying required $7,000 or $7,500 which he could repay at $500 a month for a total return of $10,000

He and Benton raised the money through a bank and received a promissory note, Dr Patterson testified he entered a further 13 arrangements, the last in early 1962.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT and financial leaders greeted President Johnson's recent decision to deal firmly with the American balance of payments problem with a nonchalant "it won't hurt us" attitude that was surprising in the circumstances.

Finance Minister Gordon led the chorus with his remark that the president's action presented "no serious difficulties" for Canada and that the American government had "taken account of our situation here." Business leaders were quick La state stratulation fedt de be no problem in arranging financing of the industrial growth that Canadais economic must have

The general impression was that Canada and the United States were too interdependent for the Americans to solve their balance of payments problem in any way that would injure Canada.

Our own editorial comment at the time was much less optimistic and we noted specifically that one of the meanings of President Johnson's program was that this country was being asked to accommodate its monetary policy to that of the United States and that it had no legitimate reason to refuse to do so. In fact, of course, Canada had no examination of the situation by the country's leading financial newspaper, The Financial Post, in an editorial of the current edition which is reprinted in part on this page.

What is happening, bluntly, is that the Canadian government has been forced to take steps to help protect the American dollar which may not prove to be in the best interests of the Canadian economy at this time. The Bank of Canada is now committed to keeping interest security investments in Canada unattractive to Americans. To do this it will be necessary to expand the Canadian money supply, to inflate in others words, although what the country needs right now is certainly not any further degree of inflation.

The one bright spot in the situation could be that more Canadians will recognize the real direction that this country has been following for some years in selling off so much of its assets and opportunities to foreign owners. They may realize that this cannot be done without handing over the country's future to the new owners, and that economic control and political control are not so rigidly separated as may have

OF ALL THE ANALYSES OF come to stop beating our heads the goals and policies of Presipresident Johnson in foreign affairs, none makes more sense than the calm reasoning demonstrated in two recent articles on this page by Mr. Walter Lippmann.

The president's emphasis, in his budget message and other addresses, on domestic affairs has led to considerable concern that the United States may be starting a withdrawal into the isolation of pre-war days.

Closer study of the president's words, however, shows that they do not lend themselves to this interpretation. Rather Mr. Johnson should remain, and must remain, deeply involved in all the affairs of pattern for the past 20 year

As Mr. Lippmann pointed out: "The role of the United States in the world today is to use its power, Its resources, its brains and its experience to see that inevitable comes to pass decently and honestly. The time has come to stop imagining ourselves to be the 'leader' of Europe. The time has against stone walls under the illusion that we have been appointed policeman to the human race."

There has been a change in the world in recent years in the relations of most countries to one another which signals to Mr. Lippmann that the post-war period is at long last coming to an end. The change is most noticeable in Europe where accommodations are being made that would have seemed impossible five years ago.

"It is a callow kind of jingoism," Mr. Lippmann states, "to talk of victory for us and defeat for the Soviet Union as it accommodates itself to the growing intercourse seems determined that his country between the two halves of Europe. And it is panic-mongering to flagellate ourselves into paroxysms of the world, but on a quite different anguish and shame at the prospect basis to that which has been the of negotiating settlements which end our entanglements in Asia

What is taking place is a correction of the great displacement of power-Russian power into the heartland of Europe and American power into the mainland of Asiaadjustment in Europe and Asia which resulted during the war. This correction is one of great hope for world peace to anyone who has an eye on the future rather than on the past.

WITH THE ANNOUNCEMENT have reason to warn property ownthat assessments in Victoria ers against tax cut expectations. have reached an all-time record total, officials have issued a warning to residents not to expect a cut in their tax rate. There is nothing contradictory In this situation. When expenditures are static, a high assessment roll, the basis on which taxes are raised, can produce a cut in the mill rate. But there is nothing static about the city's expenditures. In the course of its revitalization it has undertaken work which calls for relatively high expenditure. The preliminary school budget indicates a substantial rise in the funds needed for education. The expenses of carrying on city business and maintaining services do not go down. Hence, at this stage, civic officials

Similarly, in the districts adjacent to Victoria, assessments have gone up. The exceptional rise in Oak Bay has led one elected official to hint guardedly that a cut may be made in the mill rate, though this can be speculation only until the municipal budget is passed.

In Esquimalt and Saanich assessments have also risen, but here again, particularly in the latter, development work, iln part necessitated by the very improvements which boosted the taxable values, calls for more expenditure.

Under these circumstances, the recent speech by a local Social Credit member in the legislature about the affluent municipalities rings a trifle hollow.

THE LATEST program to bring U.S. international payments into better realities for Canadians.

1. It is at our peril that we continue the great sell-off and sell-out of Canadian companies, especially manufacturing concerns, to American buyers. The pressure is on to have the Canadian sub-sidiaries of U.S. companies hold back on expansion, bring more earnings back into the U.S. and, in general, come to the aid of the country—and, understand-the country is not Canada. In the months—or perhaps yearsahead business growth and price stability in Canada will depend more and more on the wisdom and imagination of nent budget-makers in this country. Our money manager, by contrast, ill be increasingly preoccupied with external payments problems, not with active promotion of domestic growth blems, not with the

The current instability in our bond markets and the recent declines in the prices of our common stocks provide ample evidence of the extreme sensitive ity of the Canadian economy to U.S. moves and policies. Many investors, big and small, are obviously deeply apprehensive about the staying power of Canada's business expansion when the government attempts to cut back U.S. investment in this country.

Vulnerable

But the irony, idiocy and sadness of the present situation is the fact that to a great extent we have made our policies. The torrent of Canadian sellouts, especially in the postwar years, has increased this country's reliance on the U.S. and decreased our freedom to set our own policies and decide what is desirable and suitable for our own

Where is our independence when the It's administration can pressure an "international" company to expand its plant for example, Cleveland instead of adding to its plant in Toronto? Such a finding has been made by the minister in the case of the European gasoline which in late fall was undermining the morale of Toronto customers. There is nothing in the order-in-council which specifically mentions Toronto or convicts the importer of moral turpitude for selling in that area. But the effect appears to be as stated and departmen tal officials do not deny that there may he some relation between the order-incouncil and the national oil policy.

The suspicion that some such relations exists is strengthened by certain remarks appearing in Hansard of No-vember 25. At that time the minister of trade and commerce announced that he was making an investigation into the

Government Stand

"The course of this investigation, Mr. Speaker, has been this, I have been meeting with representatives of all the companies engaged in the petroleum business in Canada and I have informed them that the government continues to support the national oil policy and will, if necessary, take steps to prevent the disruption of that policy by imports of gasoline from Europe at distress prices.'

It seems relevant to inquire how prejudice or injury to the Canadian ducers was established in this case. Officials note, hypothetically, that condi-tions requiring ministerial intervention may exist if there is evidence that heavy imports are causing "demoralization"

This adds a pleasant aura of mystery to the whole business. Under the interest-ing arrangements between the oil industry and the government, the heavy im-ports come in through Montreal. In fact, Eastern Canada is served by imports from the Venezuelan estates of the international oil companies. Distress only becomes apparent when the trickle of imports from Europe reaches filling within the imperial domain re served for the Canadian companies.

The degree of demoralization that justified the December order-in-council may be appreciated from the recent glowing accounts of the Canadian oil ndustry which have appeared in such papers as the Financial Post. We read, for example, that the net profit of In perial Oil was up 11 per cent in 1964, British American realized its "biggest earnings improvement during the last four years." Shell reported a whopping 36 per cent profits jump, the best of the major integrated companies

Smaller firms appear to have escaped disaster too. The Financial Post, report ing on four different companies, advises its readers that one had "sharply higher "; another "profits up 13 per another "earnings up 65 per cent over 1963; still another enjoyed a "ne profit up 52 per cent."

Persuasive

This is not "demoralization" as the public understands that term. The com-panies must, indeed, have been persuaconvince the government that their industry was prejudiced or injured by a few price reductions in a score of Toronto filling stations. The Financial Times, another eastern newspaper, suggests that the govern-ment may have had some reason to fear that if the offending importer was not dealt with in summary fashion, the oil companies might decline to participate further in the national oil policy. But this is also puzzling; why show don a policy from which they appear to be reaping such great rewards?

It seems doubtful that Parliament, in approving the section of the Customs Act on which the order-in-council is based, had in mind such a situation as this. The government, by an ingenious twist, has made the section serve the interests of the modern baronial system introduced by its predecessor with the assistance of the oil companies. Some conmay be disrupted, and sumer , habits consumer pockets emptied, in the process but Toronto motorists will probably consider this a small sacrifice if it relieves the distress in the Canadian oil industry.

Taken one by one, this strange great

Common Market and the Soviet bloc and China have often seemed arbitrary and inexplicable. But now all has been knit together, and all has been explained with almost searing frankness by the general's statement on the future of Ger

Modified By Russia

De Gaulle began by postly admi the end of the last war he had favored the goat-pasture solution of the German problem that was advocated in a few others. This solution, he went on, had mainly had to be abandoned because the "confrontation of the free orld and the Soviet world had become the major affair."

The German problem, he went on, is still the key, the central problem in Europe; and the problem is still not solved, because Germany is still dis-united. He then outlined the conditions on which he predicted the problem would one day be solved by Germany's reunification.

Condition number one was that the task must be left exclusively to German's neighbors, "the European peo-ples." Otherwise, said the general, "what must be done will not be done" meaning that German reunification will always, in his opinion, remain impossible as long as those non-Europeans, the Americans, remain in Europe, in NATO

Condition number two was that Russia and the Eastern European Communist countries should evolve in a hopeful manner, to the point of desiring "progress accomplished in common by free men and peoples." At that point, he predicted, a German settlement would be a set the set of the se

NATO Dismantling

What does all this mean, in hard, actical terms? It means that General de Gaulle positively looks forward to a day when NATO will be dismantled and the United States will withdraw from Europe. It means that he hopes the Soviets will permit German reunification in exchange for American withdrawal m Europe.

It means that he expects the Germans to concede the permanent loss of the former German territories in Eastern Europe and above all to agree to a strict, permanent limitation on German armaments, in return for reunification. And it means that he also expects all the other European states to join with France as the guarantors of this arms limitation, which would forever deprive the reunified Germany of nuclear power.

This is, of course, a bold but simple recipe for establishing permanent French hegemony in Europe, despite Germany's wester wealth For with the United States out of the with German rearmament solidly for-bidden and with the sole nuclear force in Europe in the hands of France, French begemony would be an automation fact. The aims of Louis XIV would thus be gloriously realized.

'Glory of France'

All this may seem pretty odd to many mericans, as it will no doubt seem odd to Germans and other Europeans who dare to look the facts squarely in the face. Yet this vision of de Gaulle's is far from lunatic, in the sense of being absolutely impossible to realize. De Gaulle's visions never are. If you think solely of French glory, as de Gaulle does, it is even a brilliant vision, well worth working toword.

For the United States and for Germany, however, de Gaulle's vision presents a good many problems. Even if not with Foreign Minister Couve de Murville, the United States government still badly needs to get down to brass tacks with the German government.

Children and TV Violence

In your recent editorial commenting on a CP report of part of my address to the Consultation on Children and Television sponsored by the National Council of Churches you said "if he . . . (Rainsberry) means that violence on the small screen is not injurious to the young . . he clashes with the views of experts who testified last year to a United States Congressional subcor tee studying this problem."

I have read the summary of the most recent and most significant testimony before the Dodd committee in Washington and I don't believe my full statement conflicts with recent findings reported to that committee. I recognize and stated in my talk that some television fare, for some children can be very anxiety-inducing and I stressed that parents should know what their children are viewing, should share in TV viewing with their children, and should make a real effort to understand how children perceive and use TV in their

Perhaps the following statement of Dr. Ralph Garry of Boston, which I quoted in my address, will shed some light on my contention that a child's reaction to TV whether it is enjoyment or anxiety must be understood in terms of the child's perception of the program and not necessarily in terms only of what adults see. Dr. Garry says, ents who are sensitive to their chil-

We decided also to do something on our very own. So we put a little jar on our dining table and put at least a penny in it every day. A penny is not very much, but if a little jar like ours stands on every dining table in the land, it will amount to quite a sum.

We hope that this practice will spread that it is often the quality of violence and the nature of the participants which create more tension and disturbs more children than sheer quantity of violence. The typical western, gorged with gun-fire, doesn't start children running to their local armory. It is a well-worn ritual with all the events predictable. The typical bar-room fight scene, for all the broken props, is a kaleidoscope of noisy action for the child, the outcome entirely foreseen, but the actual image as confusing as a girl's first football game. To the child it is more action than violence. However, let the scene involve a slow buildup, a knife, a man stalking a child, shadowy scenes, lingering camera work following the perpetration of injury, and quite frightening effects occur. Let the scenes appear familiar, the actors similar to real persons in the child's life, and one finds effects multiplying, for the tension becomes too great for children. In con-trast, the traditional western is to the a formal ballet unrelated to life."

In this connection, I also referred to the study of Dr. Himmelweit which made the important point that such apparently harmless "children's for as Lassie stories and Fairy Tales "children's fare' which animals for whom loyalty has been established and characters whom children have come to identify themselves are often seriously threatened-can be far more anxiety-inducing than the westerns and crime-stories we are so often concerned about. further indicates that the action-motion format is a wholesome part of drama for the young and is not in itself disturbing to any but the already disturbed Professor Nathan Maccoby of Stanford-University has also made this distinction and has said: "It is important to distinguish aggression from action. Aggression may be defined as behavior intended to harm or injure another person. Physical violence is only one kind of aggression, but many sorts of vigor physical action are in no way, we, aggression in itself.

U.S. INVESTMENT CURBS UNLIKELY TO HIT CANADA

OTTAWA (CP) Officials here are hope 000 in 1963 from $650,000,000 in 1960. In 1964 ful that U.S. government pressure on American business to curtail investment abroad the figure likely will be about $200,000,000.

Meanwhile, short-term investments

white Sommon has asked to to trim voluntarily their investments abroad to stem, the outflow of dollars, but Douglas Dillon, secretary of the treasury, indicated no efforts would be made to cut back investments in Canada.

An official in Ottawa said any broad U.S. program to trim foreign investment is bound to have some effect in Canada, but he doubted it would be severe.

Direct foreign investments, to which the president referred, are playing a relatively less important role in-Canada than previously. So long as the U.S. doesn't take more drastic action—such as tampering with the invest-ment flow of the Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms officials are hopeful that serious problems ean be avoided.

Foreign direct investment in Canada -- of which U.S. investment makes up about 80 per cent dropped to $240,000.

In the 15 years from 1948 to 1962 Canada had a current account deficit with the U.S. of $15,000,000,-000. American capital investment in the same period was about $7.500,000,000, leaving a net Canadian deficit or a U.S.

surplus, of almost $8,000,000,-This was the reason the U.S. decided to exempt New Canadian issues from the 15-percent interest equalization tax. While the U.S. administration does not have Canada in mind when requesting a cutback in foreign investments, this country may still feel the effects of any program designed to discourage American firms from spending their capital abroad.

But it will be some months before any impact is felt. Meantime, officials say they are fairly optimistic about it

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

Rolla Vollstedt walks the edge of a dream. He does not aspire to be president of the United States or chairman of U.S. Steel, or the guy who drew Jayne Mansfield on a blind date.

All he wants is to be the designer and the manager of the winning car in the Indianapolis 500, auto racing equivalent of the chariot races Julius Caesar presided over at the Via Appia Speedway.

Foster Has Potential to Be Great

It is almost axiomatic that people who fall off mountains just when the summit is in sight return for another whack. Losing at Indy has had a similar effect on Vollstedt. He has the enthusiasm of a soap-box orator, the confidence of Dr. Norman Vincent Peale when he talks about "this year."
This year, Vollstedt was telling a sedentary group of press, radio and TV men at the Pacific Club Monday, he will try with Len Sutton, a distinguished chauffeur, will pilot a new one. Billy Foster, the pride of Victoria's hit-the-pedal-and-let-'er-rip set, will guide the '64 chariot.

'I had three chances to sell last year's car," Vollstedt said. "But I'm selfish. I believe Foster has the potential to be a great driver and I'd like to share his success.

"So I talked to some Victoria people who I thought might be interested in having the first Canadian car and Canadian driver at Indy.

"We formed Canadian Automobile Racing Enterprises Ltd., a private corporation. The car is valued at $24,000 and we're selling shares in the company." The corporate body (chairman, Reg Midgely) encouraging investments ($1,200 per share) in Foster, will bring Billy's buggy to Esquimalt Arena April 13.

High DQ (Danger Quotient) In Racing

Thousands of art lovers who grow dewey-eyed at the aroma of exhaust fumes will likely stroke its pelt. It has been 18 years since the last Indy car, the City of Tacoma, passed through

Getting a piece of Foster is not as risky as betting on who will be in charge of South Viet Nam tomorrow. Car jockeys are considered prime candidates for early burials, the sport falling somewhere between rattlesnake milking and Russian roulette in its danger quotient. But Foster has a realistic approach to his job.

"You know the danger is always there," he once said. "But you don't worry about it. There's a fine line between driving and dying and you try to go right up to it, but not over it."

Last year, after conducting clinics for drivers in the Pacific Northwest, Foster was accepted by USAC (United States Auto Club), the ranking order of ground jet pilots.

He was unplaced in three major races, squirting oil and uting smoke with A. J. Foyt, Rodger Ward, Parnelli Jones, USAC artistocrats with heavy throttle feet and julcy bank ac-

"As a race it wasn't much. Parnelli Jones won it so easily called it the Jones' Benefit.

"The action was provided by Foster. His car came up with a cracked magneto early. Against other cars running properly if not too fast, Foster would lose ground on the straight-away where you just push the button and hold on.

"But on every corner Foster would go in last and come out first. He was fantastic."

Foster's credentials appear in order but what about Vollstedt's? Last year A. J. Foyt won the 500 holocaust in an A. J.

No Wonder Rolla Twitched a Little . . Watson is widely heralded as a drawing board genius, up

"He called me long before the 1964 500," Vollstedt says. "He asked all about my design for a rear-engined Offy. I even sent him my drawings.

Traditionally a front-engine Offy proponent, Watson converted to Vollstedt's concept, came up with an exact copy. Picking Vollstedt's brains, Watson and Co. collected the gold and the glory. Rolla didn't weep. What's $147,000, except

ROYAL BANK

IMPORTANT NOTICE BORROWERS & SAVERS

The Royal Commission on Banking and Finance recommended the removal of the 6% ceiling on the rate of interest a chartered bank may charge for loans. We hope that the Bank Act, due for revision by Parliament soon, will in fact remove this ceiling and also enable the chartered banks to take mortgage security-now prohibited by law but recommended in the Royal Commission report.

To Our Borrowing Customers

To remove any uncertainty in the minds of our borrowing customers, the Royal Bank wishes to assure them that removal of the ceiling will not of itself affect our prevailing loan rates. The general level of these rates is determined by monetary policy as formulated by the Government and implemented through the Bank of Canada. However, the changes proposed by the Royal Commission will, if enacted in law, enable the chartered banks to enter lending fields hitherto closed to them. Thus the banks will be in a position to make, at reasonable rates, loans of a term and risk which, under present regulations are available only at higher rates outside the banking system.

We look forward to the removal of the ceiling as a means by which we can serve a wider public, not as a means by which we can charge higher interest rates on our present types of loans.

To Our Savings Customers

Removal of the ceiting, by permitting us to make new types of loans, will enable us to introduce a new type of savings account on which a higher rate of interest will be paid.

Thus, removal of the 6% ceiling-

- 1. Will benefit the owners of 12,000,000 savings accounts with the chartered banks.
- Will not hurt existing borrowers.
- 3. Will help those now forced to borrow outside the chartered banking system, by providing them with loans at more reasonable rates.

Funny, the little things that annoy customers! Like hearing a busy signal every time they call you, for example. They get to feel unwanted. Wouldn't you? You might as well leave your business phone lying on the desk!

Every nowand again a customer hearsyour busy signal once too often-and phones a competitor: a man with a voice, not a buzz.

The economical solution: an additional telephone line. Then, few customers will ever again get the busy signal from your phone. It could pay for itself sooner than you think just by the business you save.

You will even pick up new customers, folks tired of being buzzed at by one of your single line competitors.

Learn how much more another line can improve your business, and at such little cost. Call and ask our Marketing and Sales Department.

BRIDGE LESSON By OSWALD JACOBY Almost every bridge player knows enough to set up a long suit in his own hand. Surprisingly few remember that a long suit in dummy is just as valuable. South's two-club opening was made because he played two clubs as his only forcing bid and North's two diamonds was the negative response. When North raised two spades to three, South threw caution to the wind and leaped right to six. South won the opening heart lead with his ace ♠ 1085 ♥98532 and promptly ruffed a second heart in dummy Then he led a diamond and finessed the queen. West won with the king and led a trump which South won. South ruffed his last heart, led a diamond to his ace and ruffed his last diamond with dummy's last trump. He returned to his hand with the ace of clubs and cashed the rest of his trumps. Finally he led his king of clubs and when the suit failed to break he was down one. South complained of bad luck. The diamond finesse had lost and clubs had failed to break. That was bad luck but South should have made the slam without any trouble. All he had to do was to notice that there was a six-eard club suit in dummy and that the easy way to make the slam would be to draw the enemy's trumps and set up that club suit.

Then he would have drawn trumps by playing out his ace, king and queen and led ace, king and another club. West would get a club trick but South would ruff one heart p.m. 733 Broughton. Bill Bridgewood, paint work, GR 8-262, GR 8-6612.

listed could prove to be winners though it is hardly likely at this stage. There have been quite a few words written about them prior to the production stages and there was nothing read which would prompt a quick letter off home to mother,

Stephen The following are shows which, as of now, are through at the end of this season:

Profiles in Courage, The Defenders, Perry Mason, Alfred Hitchcock, Slattery's People, Jack Benny (he may return in specials), Jack Paar (he quit at last), Bell Telephone Hour, Bing Crosby, International Showtime, Kentucky Jones, Rawhide, Hazel, The Entertainers, My Living Doll (it lost something when Bob Cummings left), and the documentary series, FDR.

Other series which seem destined for the files include: Wendy and Me (with George Burns), Valentin Day, The Rogues, Tycoon (with Walter Brennan), That

It wasn't bad enough that this season's run of shows. Was The Week That Was (That Will Be The Kindest Mr. Novak, Mr. Ed. Mr. Magoo, On Broadway Tonight (it was only a filler anyway), The Doctors and the Nurses, Cara Williams, For the People, Many Happy Returns, The Baileys of Balboa (with Paul Ford) and

And work tearners and past tone trained made

One of the saving graces is that there are excellent documentaries from time to time, but even they seem to be fewer and far between as television seasons go on.

Notice that Andy Griffith is returning but he will be without his sidekick Don Knotts. Griffith made the decision to go along without Knotts but it must have been a tough one to make.

Knotts is leaving the show for a new contract at Universal Studios to star in movies and perhaps a television show of his own.

The series is now looking for another man to try to fill in some of the gap. He has to be somebody who creates trouble like Barney Fife, deputy, created trouble. If a new man is found he may not be worked into being a deputy. There are many characters to be found in a fictional town like Mayberry.

One of the most successful was Gomer Pyle whom actor Jim Nabors parlayed into a series of his own. He will be back next season, too.

The final budget despeakers will fret their little hour this eve-Then, to the relief ning. of players and audience alike, the big show staged annually under the legislative dome will swing into its third and final act.

and slightly second a c t are about to be followed by at least three and possibly four tension-charged scenes.

To my mind, the least significant of these will revolve around the "Dear Hal" letter miserable document which bears but glancingly on the session. It will probably provide a good deal more of charge and counter-charge be fore we're done with it; but I have yet to recognize it as bona fide political dynamite.

Three other issues loom larger. One reared its head last Thursday. I refer to the attack spearheaded by North Vancouver Liberal Gibson and pressed very strongly by both opposition groups against government forest policies. * *

Unless thoroughly disproved, Mr. Gilson's claim that B.C. is letting vast forest revenues slip through her fingers each year will remain as a ghost to haunt and embarrass the Social Credit ranks.

Watch for this ghost to dance with a vengeance when Lands and Forests Minister Williston tackles his estimates Then there's the matter of a Parks Act to be weighed. Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan has dropped no hint of what shape his suggested legislation will but should it sanction further industrial intrusion into what we know as as "class A wilderness parks" (Strathcona was one such) you may expect hot and bitter protests before the matter s to the vote.

For myself, I won't be surprised if we emerge with classification and management

The fourth and most signifieant confrontation will, I ex-pect, take place when the House switches from committee of supply into committee of the whole, to debate Bill No. Six. It is with this bill that Premier Bennett in his capacity of finance minister proposes 'An Act to Amend the Revenue Act.' If, or when, legislation will give B.C. power purchase up to 10 per cent of shares in any or all Canadian chartered banks-a right which Ottawa has promised to Veto with its own "no-shares" act against provincial govern-

The premier introduced a bill to amend the Municipalities Aid Act providing a flat $4 per capita grant to all municipalities in addition to their normal grants.

This will bring in an extra $531,200 to Greater Victoria unicipalities this year-$219, 767 for Victoria; $195,504 for Saanich; $181,480 for Oak Bay. and $142,384 for Esquimalt.

The premier said that the expanding economy ready been given a lift this year by the "dynamic society" proposals of his budget increased expenditures would to keep the budget balanced.

The unheralded increase will raise the present total of per capita grants from $13.1 on in the budget estimates brought down only two weeks ago to $18.4 million.

The move follows considerable criticism in the Legisla ture from both opposition and backbench government supporters that the budget speech promised very little increased sistance to municipalities.

The former executive assistant to the immigration minister said he gave Senator Gelinas the information concerning Stonehil because the senator, Liberal party treasurer in Quebec, had asked that he be kept informed about Ithe progress of the case.

look how you can remodel your kitchen with LIGHTI

No other kitchen improvement can add so much for so little cost. You can give your kitchen a bright new look and make it easier and more pleasant to work in. Start with adequate lighting for those many important "seeing" tasks.

AT THE SINK. This is an action area: ample light is required to clean vegetables; to see if your dishes are really clean; and if, heaven forbid, that is a green bug on your spinach.

Scientists tell us, by the way, that you need 53.6 footcandles to see 'a green bug on spinach' (which you could get from a 150 watt flood lamp). Solution: install a recessed light above the sink, or behind a decorative valance. AT THE COUNTER. Baking and preparation of meals is so much easier when you have Oldan B shadow-free lighting. It helps you to read recipes, measure ingredients; make sure that special cake is trimmed to perfection. Hide fluorescent lamps under upper cupboards to light the counter surfaces.

AT THE RANGE. Another important area. It figures: you will cook better if you can see what you are cooking. Is the steak rare or medium? Is that pastry done to the right shade T of golden-brown? Install an attractive local light and you'll never have to wonder again.

Start planning your bright new kitchen now. Ease into it if you like, and add one lighting improvement at a time. You can add the cost of lighting fixtures to your monthly HYDRO bill - through the HOUSEPOWER FINANCE PLAN.
